Remains of a Mastodon Exhumed.

TRAFFIC, N. Y., Nov. 9.—About a month since, during the excavations of a peat bed in Cobles for the foundation of a mill now in course of erection by the Harmony Manufacturing Company, the jaw-bone of a mastodon was discovered about thirty feet below the surface of the earth. But yesterday this wonderful discovery was eclipsed by the excavation of still further fossiliferous remains, which completely early the bones or framework of the mastodon. Eighty-five feet below the earth's surface, and about fifty feet below the place of the original discovery, the workmen yesterday came upon the remaining bones, consisting as follows: Two tusks, backbone, the upper jaw and cranium, a number of ribs, the hip bones, shoulder-blades, and the bones of the hind legs. The tusks were each nearly six feet long and about nine inches in diameter. One of them upon exposure to the light crumbled to pieces, like clay, resembling that substance in appearance and texture.

The ribs, of which there were 14 found, are about 4 feet long, the largest being 4 feet 9 inches. The upper jaw-bone is 4 feet 9 inches long from the extremity of the mouth to the cranium, and across the forehead measures about 3 feet. So heavy is it that it was with difficulty four laborers could move the mass.
The sockets in which originally were located the eyes of the monster are almost large enough to admit the head of a man. The hip-bone is 5 feet long and weighs 100 pounds; the shoulder-blades measure 2 feet 9 inches in diameter.
The vertebrae of the back-bone are 8 inches in diameter. The other fragments found are in harmonious proportion to those already mentioned.

Prof. Marsh, of Yale College, was present soon after the discovery was made, and pronounced it the most remarkable scientific event of the age. The structure will now be united in its several parts by means of wire, and thus a very accurate idea can be formed of the size and weight of the monster to which it belonged.
After a separation of countless ages, probably, the several parts will be reunited.

CYRUS W. FIELD.—We hope we do not violate confidence in stating a fact to the honor of a New York merchant, which, though a private transaction, ought to be known. Our fellow-citizen, Mr. Cyrus W. Field, whose name will always be connected with the Atlantic Telegraph, has twice nearly ruined himself by his devotion to that enterprise. Though a man of independent fortune when he began, he embarked in it so large a portion of his capital as nearly to make shipwreck of the whole.

While in England, engaged in the expedition of 1857, a financial storm swept over this country, and his house suspended, but on his return he asked only for time, and paid all in full with interest. But the stoppage was a heavy blow, and being followed by a fire in 1859, which burned his store to the ground, and by the panic of December, 1860, just before the breaking out of the war, he was finally obliged to surrender to his creditors. The released debts he has at last carried through. The success of the Atlantic Telegraph, we are happy to learn, has brought back a portion of his lost wealth, and his first care has been to make good all losses to others. He has addressed a letter to every creditor who suffered by the failure of his house in 1860, requesting him to send a statement of the amount compromised, adding the interest for nearly six years, and as fast as presented returns a check in full. The whole amount will be about $200,000. Such a fact however he may wish to keep it secret, ought to be known to his honor, and to the honor of the merchants of New York. —New York Post.

NORTHERN MEN AT THE SOUTH.—We reassured what has frequently been said by every respectable paper in the South, that any Northern man coming among us for the purpose of legitimate business, and not with the deliberate intention of making himself hateful and dangerous to our people, will find welcome and encouragement here, and with as many advantageous fields for the successful employment of capital and labor as will be found in the world. And we are satisfied that if it had not been to the advantage of the politicians of the North to have basely slandered our section, the tide of emigration which is choking the channels of travel at the West, would have turned Southward, and many, very many of our outworn population would have found contented homes with us. So long as it serves the purposes of their political demands, the South will continue to be slandered, and for the present must depend upon herself for repopulation and advancement. By honest industry, faithful observance of the laws, and zealous and untiring efforts, we must work out our own salvation. Our progress, though slow, will be more certain, and its accomplishment will be more honorable and lasting. — dred dollars, executed by John Shewley, decd., and assigned to the plaintiff, C. Wendell.

The defendants, not having entered their appearance and given security according to the act of Assembly and the rules of this Court, and it appearing by affidavit that they are non residents of this State, it is ordered that the said defendants appear here within one month after due publication of this order, and do what is necessary to protect their interest in this suit; and that a copy of this order be forthwith inserted in the Alexandria Gazette, a newspaper published in the city of Alexandria, once a week for four successive weeks, and posted at the front
